

Tries To Cool Off, Loses His Dam Job

12/29/33

An attempt to cool off by divesting himself of his clothing and parading in the night air in the altogether, cost a Six Companies garage employee his job and resulted in his being expelled from the Boulder dam reservation this morning.

Complaints were made to City Manager Sims Ely by several women, neighbors of the man, who declared he had appeared on the premises sans clothing, in front of women and children, two girls aged 12 and 14 appearing to corroborate the story.
