

Miracle Accident Occurs on Dam Job

~~7/2/34~~

Another "miracle" accident was the thing on the job yesterday, when a huge Bucyrus electric shovel, which was being taken via the government cableway from down in the canyon to "up above," slipped in the carrying slings and hit the Nevada retaining wall. The accident, which occurred shortly before three o'clock yesterday afternoon, was caused by the shovel being out of balance, according to officials of Six Companies Inc. No damage was done.
