

DAM BASE ROAD TO BE CLOSED

Impounding of water in the vast lake to be formed at the base of the Boulder dam will soon necessitate closing of the road which leads to the bottom of that massive structure, it was learned today.

Officials at Boulder plan to close the road the latter part of next week. Hundreds of tourists have travelled over the route to the base of the dam.

Official guides are still permitted to take visitors down to the foot of the structure on both sides, but this travel will be possible only up to and including the first week in February. Then the outlets will be closed, and the lake will begin to form. The dam is now in the last stages of construction, although several months will be required to complete the project.