

Push Work on Hoover Dam

The United States Government is drilling into the abutments at the site of the Hoover Dam to determine the hardness of the rock and to determine its strata in order that they may give the contractors some definite data on which to make their bids