

HIGH above the Colorado River these workmen are placing anchorages from which drillers will swing by ropes in scaling down the walls of Black Canyon.