

Contractor Must Finish Structure in Time for School Next Autumn

EIGHT ROOM HOUSE

School Will Be Located on Colorado, Block North Of "City Hall"

5/7/22
The contract for building of Boulder City's eight-room school-house has been let and construction will be started soon, the structure to be completed before the end of August, just in time for school next fall.

I. M. Bay, lowest bidder on the job, was awarded the contract, which arrived yesterday from Denver in the Boulder City office of the Bureau of Reclamation.

The school will be on Colorado street near Utah, facing north.

The amount of Bay's bid was $12,441. He will have to begin construction within ten days after receipt of notice to proceed, having 100 days then in which to build the school.

Bay, who has built a number of houses for the government in this city, has been awaiting word on this contract and preparing for the promulgation of the work.

There are to be eight classrooms in the building, floor plan for which may be seen at the Journal office thru courtesy of the Bureau of Reclamation.

The building, of permanent construction, will be 179 feet long and 56 feet wide, with four classrooms in each end.

The wide loggia, with long steps, will have the main front entrance and windows to the principal's office and library, which will be on either side of the short hallway leading in to the main passageway.

Beyond the principal's and library, on the same side of the corridor, will be teachers' room and cloak rooms respectively with the classroom beyond.

On the rear side of the building will face four of the eight classrooms and two lavatories, the latter to be in the middle of the building, with stairway to the basement between them.

Four of the classrooms will be 22 by 27 and four will be 22 by 30 in size. Each classroom will have six double windows.

On the supposition that more classrooms might be needed, the Bureau of Reclamation engineers have planned small supplementary buildings which might be built to house the "overflow."
