

Odd Accident at Dam Injures Man

5/5/34
Henry Rousch, oiler for Six Companies Inc., was painfully but not seriously injured in a freak accident at the dam this afternoon.

Rousch was riding a "Joe Magee," a short makeshift cableway, near the upper face of the dam, when the high wind blew the platform of the cableway up against the catwalk.

Rousch's arm was caught between the platform and the catwalk and badly injured. X-ray pictures were being taken at the Boulder City hospital this afternoon to determine whether the arm was broken.
