

Dam Workman Has Narrow Escape

3-16-34

Roland Riley, signalman on number two derrick at the river, narrowly escaped serious injury early this morning when he was struck with an eight yard bucket.

Riley, who works on the derrick on the graveyard shift, was struck a glancing blow by the monster bucket and was merely badly bruised. Witnesses who saw the accident, declared that Riley was fortunate in that he was not seriously hurt.

The injured man was taken to the hospital where it was reported that he will be released tomorrow.
