

BOULDER DAM CHIEFS NAMED

Officers of the Six Companies Inc., who will build the huge $165,000,000 Boulder Dam, held their first official meeting here yesterday.

It was held at the St. Francis Hospital, where William H. Wattis, president of the Six Companies, is undergoing the Humber-Coffey cancer treatment.

After the meeting Wattis announced the official list of officers of the Six Companies and the committees which will work with them on this enormous job. The formation of two subsidiary companies was also announced.

The officer list, as announced by Wattis, was as follows: President, William H. Wattis; W. A. Bechtel, first vice president; E. O. Wattis, second vice president; Charles A. Shea, secretary; Felix Kahn, treasurer; K. K. Bechtel, assistant secretary-treasurer.

The construction committee is headed by H. J. Lawler as chairman and includes Charles A. Shea, H. W. Morrison, W. A. Bechtel Jr., and E. O. Wattis. The purchasing committee is S. D. Bechtel, chairman; Allan MacDonald, and L. S. Corey.

The first company to be formed is the Boulder Dam Transportation Company, which will handle all freight and passenger traffic to and from the dam.

The second subsidiary is the Boulder City Company, which will have charge of all housing, feeding, commissary, and concessions at the construction site.
