

TOURIST HORDE SHOWS INCREASE

The already record-breaking total for visitors to the Boulder canyon project for the month of June is augmented by the new total of 2,459 visitors arriving in 804 cars, coming to the dam community via the Black Canyon ferry, reclamation records showed this morning. The additional total brings the monthly total to 30,497 visitors in 9,677 cars.

So far this year, a total of 187,984 visitors tops that of the first half of last year by 64,194. Last year's total, through June, was 122,990. The total for the full year of 1934 was 266,436 visitors, according to reclamation archives.