

B. C. Lad Misses

Death in Dam Lake

Lloyd Noe, 16, Boulder City youth, narrowly escaped death by drowning in Boulder lake this afternoon when, while in swimming, he suffered an attack of an old malady with which he has been afflicted for several years.

He was in shallow water at the time, but fell face downward when he collapsed. He was rescued by other swimmers and taken to his home by members of the Boulder City police department who were summoned to the scene.