

Wyomingite May Succeed Mead

Denver Post 2/10/36

JAMES B. TRUE,

Superintendent of the Wyoming state highway department and one of the outstanding irrigation engineers of the west, who is one of the leading candidates to succeed the late Elwood Mead as United States commissioner of irrigation. Word received in Cheyenne from Washington indicates that the choice has narrowed to True and Representative James G. Scrugham of Nevada.