BANQUET GIVEN FOR VISITORS IN SIX CO. HOUSE

The visit of the public information committee of the Associated General Contractors of America was the inspiration last evening for the formal opening of their Guest House by Six Companies officials who are meeting in Boulder City this week.

Places were laid for 24 guests, which included, in addition to the directors, members of the Government forces, the visiting engineers and contractors, and Six Companies executives from Boulder City.

The dinner was served banquet-style by a staff furnished from Six Companies' mess hall.

President W. A. Bechtel of Six

Companies, Inc. presided as toastmaster, and short talks were made by all of the members of the Associated General Contractors and Engineers, who were guests on a tour of the project yesterday. Walter R. Young and Sims Ely also spoke briefly as well as all of the Six Companies directors.

Those signing the guest book were, as follows:

B. L. Brown, H. S. Crocker, J. B. Lippincott, A. S. Bent, Henry W. Horst, W. A. Bechtel, Sr., Charles A. Shea, H. J. Kaiser, S. D. Bechtel, E. O. Wattis, H. J. Lawler, Felix Kahn, Frank T. Crowe, Walker R. Young, Ralph Lowrey, Sims Ely, John C. Page, A. H. Ayres, Norman S. Gallison, H. S. Anderson, J. F. Reis, W. R. Ellis, W. E. Waste, Edgar Kaiser.

Col. Geo. B. Walbridge, acting chairman of the committee visiting the project, arrived last evening at the conclusion of the dinner, and will be in attendance today for the deliberations of the committee.
