

Builders' Supply Store Being Built

A store for builders supplies is under construction by the Boulder City Building Supply company and will be ready for business within three weeks, or thereabouts.

Snell & Webb, proprietors of the company, have several frame structures on the ground from which they have done business, and the addition of the full-fledged store will make possible the carrying of a much more complete stock of building supplies.

The grounds leased by the building supply company are on Nevada highway just east of the oil companies.

The building is being constructed of building blocks made by the firm at its plant right on the ground. All materials and supplies being used in the structure are from items carried in stock by the firm itself.

The store building, which fronts on the north side of the street, has 38-foot frontage, and is 40 feet long.

It is a one-story structure with living room in the rear for members of the force of the store. The living room is to be 28 by 15.

The roof is being put on this week. The interior is to be finished in Celotex.
