

E. A. Moritz, director of power, bureau of reclamation, has returned from a conference on electric power in California. Representatives of the Los Angeles bureau of light and power, Southern California Edison and other producers and distributors of power were present. Boulder dam power has reached a record production of over a million horsepower, which represents more than one-half of its eventual maximum of 1,800,000, according to the director of power.