

Welder Injured In Fall at Project

J. M. Thiesen, employed by Six Companies Inc., as a welder, fell yesterday at about noon, when working in form G-3 on the dam. Thiesen is at the Boulder City hospital suffering from a badly injured hip.

Donald Norbeck, employe of the bureau of reclamation is a patient at the Boulder City hospital, but it is expected that he will be released today. Norbeck is suffering from minor head injuries. The manner in which they were sustained was not learned.

Art Gazette, whose left leg was amputated following an accident late in December, was yesterday re-admitted to the Boulder City hospital for additional treatment.