

Dam Area Has Big Tourist Roster

From October 1, 1942, to August 31, 1943, the total number of visitors to the Boulder Dam Recreational area was 213,258, according to a report of the national park service in Boulder City.

Visitors to the area during the month of August totaled 15,831, the report indicates. Forty-seven states and two territories were represented in the August visitors.

The travel year for the national park service is figured from one October to another.