

Congressman James G. Scrugham, of Nevada, who last week pressed the button which started the electrolytic processing of manganese ore at the bureau of mines Boulder City pilot plant, is the second unit of the plant which has been opened this fall, and now the plant is in operation.