

Boulder City Grass To Be Sown Soon

4/22/32

Green grass will take its place alongside the shrubbery and trees in Boulder City in the near future, it was indicated yesterday when it was announced that bids on the sprinkling system for the various parks and squares in the community would be opened on May 5, in the offices of the reclamation bureau at Boulder City.

Sprinkling systems will be placed in the administration building grounds, Wilbur square, the Plaza and the municipal building and the area covered by the systems will be in the neighborhood of 10 acres, it was estimated.

The grass will be sown as soon as the sprinkling system is placed as the seed and fertilizer are already in Boulder City and ready for use.
