

Government Men Have Ball Team

4-27-32

Having organized and practiced for several nights, Bureau of Reclamation men now have a baseball team which is functioning on "all six" and which is preparing for its first game next Sunday.

Among moving spirits of the team are Grant Bloodgood, who had much to do with the organizing of the team, Robert McKenzie and Elmer Chapman, who was named manager by the group. Lyle Keyes is one of the team's hurlers.

Twelve turned out for the first practice Monday night, the second practice being last night.

The team will play the winner of this afternoon's game between the Merchants and the carpenters, "Grant Bloodgood's Team" and "Bert Goodenough's Team," as was told a Journal representative by mistake, yesterday.
