Reclamation Men Come From Other Projects

Bureau of Reclamation men from other projects have been transferred to the Hoover dam job. Following are some of the recent changes.

R. B. Williams, assistant to Walker R. Young on the Kittitas division of the Yakima project, and later his successor when Young came to the Hoover dam job, has arrived on the dam project.

David McKay Rhorer, assistant engineer, arrived two weeks ago from North Powder, Oregon, being transferred from the Baker project.

Bert Hall, who was chief inspector on the Owyhee project in Oregon, arrived several weeks ago from Oregon and has moved into one of the government residences on Denver street.

Charles A. McKay, draftsman, formerly on the Rio Grande project is now in Boulder City. He arrived early this month.

Miss Rose V. Crippa, of the stenographic and clerical force, has been transferred to the Denver office of the Bureau. Miss Marguerite Griswold, formerly of the Kittitas division of the Yakima project, is now a member of the local staff.

Horace Hubbell has arrived from Belle Fourche project in South Dakota.

Lee Dana's family has arrived from Seattle.

G. W. Robinson, gravel pit inspector, expects to make his home in Las Vegas.

The family of Earl Mills, chief clerk of the local Reclamation office, arrived last week from Ellensburg. Mills, his wife and his son, Morgan H. Mills, are now at home in a residence on Nevada boulevard.

Charles C. Darden, of the city manager's office, has moved his family to one of the government homes just north of the hospital, on lot 11, block 23.

Roy L. Shipp, electrician, has been joined recently by his family, who came from Los Angeles. They are at home in one of the three room homes, in lot 2 block 23.

R. C. Thaxton, of the Reclamation service, spent the week-end in Los Angeles.

"Shorty" Sutherland is expecting arrival of his family in Boulder City.
