

Hockaday Leaving For California

11/19/32
W. W. Hockaday, who has acted in the capacity of secretary to the general superintendent on Hoover dam, Frank T. Crowe, almost since the inception of the work, is leaving Boulder City for the state in which he spent so many years with prominent contractors, California. His place will be filled by Albert van Gordon, formerly of the Boulder City company, and erstwhile employe of the Morrison-Knudson company, of Boise, Idaho.

Mr. Hockaday, or "Hock," as he is familiarly known to many men and women of Boulder City, has scores of friends who deplore his departure. He has never been too busy to give time and understanding to the dozens who each day seek audience with Crowe for the alleviation of some grievance, real or fancied, or for the conduct of general business.
