

Assessment of Dam Property Goes On

Proceeding upon orders from Attorney-General Gray Mashburn of the state of Nevada to complete the assessment of all personal property within the Boulder dam reservation, County Assessor F. C. DeVinney is this week engaged in assessing the individual business houses in Boulder City, and expects to complete the work by the end of the week, he said this morning.

DeVinney said all of the personal property on the reservation would be listed on the county tax rolls by the end of the statutory period, and is working rapidly toward that goal.

He has completed the assessment of the property of Six Companies Incorporated, largest single property owner in the reservation, and expects to finish the rest within the next few days.
