

'Lucky' Accident By Dam Worker

Accidents aren't usually lucky, but when Leonard Warr, employed by Six Companies Inc., as a laborer, fell 35 feet out of an arch form in one of the Nevada penstock works and suffered only multiple abrasions, he called himself lucky.

The accident occurred yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Warr, who works swing shift, is being treated at the Boulder City hospital.
