

Painter-Preacher In Boulder City

Oil paintings of the Hoover dam project will be painted for the benefit of Boulder City folk by the Reverend Ernest Kothe, preacher-painter, who will work in public, in the window of the Manix and Vaughn store, according to announcement made this week.

The Reverend Kothe, who has spent the past few months painting scenes at Catalina Island, plans to remain in Boulder City long enough to paint representative pictures of Black Canyon, from Look-