

French Engineers Study Dam Project

Two French engineers who are making a study of government irrigation projects and United States economic problems are in Boulder government engineers relative to Hoover dam problems.

They are Rene Martin and Louis Chevrillon.