

Whitney and Sunset Names Are Mixed

Declaring that the tendency of individuals and newspapers to confuse the names "Sunset" and "Whitney" had proven very embarrassing from the standpoint of their business institution, Mrs. Harry Bauer of the Sunset Auto Court, eight miles out on the Boulder dam highway, explained this morning that the name Sunset applies only to the three blocks on which their auto court is located, and that the entire area is known as "Whitney."

Mrs. Bauer took exception to the statement in last night's paper that Hal Epperson, youthful driver of the Buick sedan which was wrecked Thursday night, endangering the lives of eight high school students, was believed to have secured several drinks "at Sunset."

"We're not selling liquor at our place," Mrs. Bauer said. "So it must have been somewhere in Whitney rather than Sunset, which is the name of our auto court, and not the name of the settlement there."
