

New Warehouse to Be Built by Big Six

Need for a new warehouse for Six Companies has resulted in decision to build a new one near the machine shop and electrical warehouse. The new structure will furnish additional space for the Boulder City company, and will be larger than the present warehouse.

It will be built of frame construction with iron roof and sides; railroad spurs will be built to the new storage building.

The present Boulder City company warehouse will be occupied by plumbing, carpenters' and electrical supplies, and general camp maintenance. Store supplies will be moved to the present Six Companies warehouse.
