

Avoid inappropriate roofing materials and colors.

Use appropriate earth tone type paint colors and roofing material that blend into the natural background. Amenities and utilities should be hidden as much as possible.

Avoid inappropriate building materials such as novelty siding and more contrived architectural details.

Use appropriate building materials that appear to be the same texture as the natural background. Simple architectural details are much more desirable and less expensive than elaborate designs.