1. Introduction.

- A. The Federal government mandates by law, EO, Presidential Directives, regulations, and guidance that employment and work assignments for all applicants, appointees, Federal employees, contractors, and others are consistent with national security and suitability guidelines. The PSSP has 4 main purposes: (1) to provide a basis for determining a person's suitability for assignment to Federal work and/or Federal employment, (2) to provide a basis for Reclamation to determine whether a Federal employee should be granted a national security clearance, (3) to implement certain PIV requirements of HSPD-12, and (4) general risk management of potential insider threats.

Directives and Standards

- B. This D&S establishes procedures which supplement and clarify the requirements and procedures for Reclamation in determining personnel security and suitability matters contained in DM parts 441, 442, 443, 444, and 446; 5 CFR parts 731, 732, and 736; and 5 USC chapters 3 and 73.
2. Applicability. This D&S applies to all Reclamation applicants, appointees, and Federal employees, plus contractors, volunteers, and other individuals that are required to have a background investigation pursuant to the authorities listed above.
3. Requirements and Responsibilities. More detailed information is available in 441 DM 2.
- A. Reclamation Security Division. Reclamation's Chief Security Officer (CSO), as the senior Reclamation security official, has overall responsibility for Reclamation's PSSP and the Security Division's (SD) Personnel Security Office (PSO). This includes background investigation and adjudication of all public trust and national security positions, policy development, program oversight, and the security clearance briefing, granting, verification, and debriefing processes. Specific personnel security responsibilities of the CSO include, but are not limited to, the following:
- (1) processing and adjudicating background investigations for all public trust and national security positions for Federal employees and contractor positions that are equivalent in risk level to Federal public trust positions,
  - (2) processing and adjudicating all low-risk positions for Denver and Washington Office Reclamation employees, and all contractor staff that are required to have a Federal PIV Card,
  - (3) conducting national security briefings, debriefings, and granting/verification of clearances,
  - (4) providing guidance and training to human resources specialists, managers, and employees throughout Reclamation on matters pertaining to background investigation processing and suitability adjudication,
  - (5) processing of background investigation waiver of pre-appointment investigative requirement (waiver) requests by validating eligibility and processing for approval,
  - (6) ensuring compliance with all investigative requirements, and
  - (7) maintaining records.
- B. Regional Directors. Regional directors are responsible for designating the individuals and/or offices responsible for initiating and adjudicating background investigations associated with non-sensitive/low risk positions within their respective region, in accordance with this D&S (see Paragraph 7.F.).

- C. Regional Security Officers. Regional security officers are responsible for:
- (1) providing guidance to supervisors and managers on position risk/sensitivity designation (including contract positions), and
  - (2) conducting or witnessing Standard Form (SF) 312 security briefings and debriefings.
- D. Denver Human Resources (HR) Policy Division. The HR Policy Division is responsible for ensuring consistency/oversight of servicing HR offices' implementation of the Position Designation System and Position Designation Tool (PDT) to designate covered positions, requesting the correct level of investigation based on the result, maintaining the Position Designation Record (PDR) and related database and information reporting activities.
- E. Servicing HR Offices, or Other Designated Offices. The servicing HR offices, or other office(s) as designated by the regional director, are responsible for:
- (1) ensuring that the risk/sensitivity level of all Reclamation positions are designated in accordance with the OPM PDT and appropriate background investigations are initiated and conducted for all positions,
  - (2) communicating with employees during the adjudication process, including delivery of correspondence regarding requests for additional information and proposed and final suitability and national security determinations,
  - (3) keeping supervisors informed of potential adjudicative issues and implementing final personnel actions related to position designation, suitability, and national security,
  - (4) maintaining position designation information, in coordination with the hiring official, for all Reclamation Federal employee positions,
  - (5) performing initial suitability pre-screening of Reclamation Federal employees and applicants when there is a change in assignment (new hires, transferees, details, reassignments, temporary or permanent promotions, etc.) or a change in position risk or sensitivity level,
  - (6) processing and adjudicating background investigations of low-risk non-sensitive positions for Reclamation employees and any other individuals (e.g., contract employees) where a director has assigned HR this responsibility,

Directives and Standards

- (7) ensuring processing and compliance with all waiver requirements for critical sensitive positions or Law Enforcement (LE) positions when applicable,
- (8) reporting to the SD's PSO any information concerning significant employee issues (e.g., questionable conduct, financial misrepresentation, lack of trustworthiness, adverse actions, etc.) that may warrant a follow-up adjudication to determine whether the individual continues to be suitable for the position, and
- (9) record-keeping and related database and information reporting including immediate notification to the SD's PSO of individuals in national security and public trust positions who are (or will be) separating from Reclamation's employment or their position is being re-designated.

F. Managers and Supervisors. Managers and supervisors are responsible for:

- (1) ensuring that all positions under their authority have accurate Position Descriptions (PD) with accurate designation in terms of position risk/sensitivity levels,
- (2) ensuring timely compliance of employees with all investigation and reinvestigation requirements, including completion of background investigation forms and responses to requests for additional information during the background investigation and adjudication process,
- (3) ensuring timely compliance with all waiver requirements for critical sensitive positions or LE positions when applicable,
- (4) reporting to the CSO or SD's PSO any information (i.e., personal conduct, criminal conduct, financial difficulties, delinquent taxes, etc.) that may indicate an individual's eligibility for access to classified information that appears to be inconsistent with the interests of national security, and
- (5) reporting to the SD's PSO any information (e.g., personal conduct, criminal conduct, financial difficulties, delinquent taxes, etc.) that may indicate an individual does not continue to be suitable for the position. For low-risk non-sensitive positions, information should be reported to the servicing personnel office or regional security office.

G. Acquisition Management Offices and Contracting Officer Representatives (COR).

The Acquisition Management Offices and COR are responsible for (see Department of the Interior (DOI) Acquisition Policy Release 2010-04):

- (1) ensuring that all contracts under their authority include required Reclamation Acquisition Regulation security clauses (see Subpart 1437.81, Security Requirements),

- (2) assisting in the PIV process by initiating the DOI Access card request in the DOI Access card system and ensuring contractor credentials are renewed and rescinded in a timely manner in the case of a change in contractor personnel, termination of a contract, etc.,
- (3) ensuring compliance with all investigation and reinvestigation requirements for contractor staff by verifying the required background investigation forms have been completed in a timely manner and with the background investigation process by providing the position sensitivity designations for contractor staff by providing a PDR through use of the PDT,
- (4) as prescribed by the contract, taking action as a result of an adverse suitability determination of contractor staff (see Paragraph 8.G.(13)), and
- (5) coordinating with contracting officers on the mandatory utilization of the requirements of the National Industrial Security Program for any national security contracts as specified within 443 DM 1 (see Paragraph 9.E.).

H. Reclamation Employees and Contractor Staff. All Reclamation employees and contractor staff are responsible for:

- (1) completing background investigation forms and responding to any additional requests for information during the background investigation and adjudication processes, within the time frame established by the personnel security adjudicator,
- (2) reporting to his/her supervisor or COR, any job activities that they believe could result in a change in their PD or their need for increased security access,
- (3) reporting any information (e.g., personal conduct, criminal conduct, financial difficulties, delinquent taxes, etc.) that raises potential security concerns about an individual with a national security clearance (including themselves) to the CSO or the SD's PSO (see the United States (U.S.) Department of Defense (DOD) link at <http://www.dhra.mil/perserec/osg/home.htm> for more specific guidance on reporting requirements and also Paragraph 9.F.(2)),
- (4) reporting any information (e.g., personal conduct, criminal conduct, financial difficulties, delinquent taxes, etc.) that may indicate an individual does not continue to be suitable for the position (including themselves) to the SD's PSO (for low-risk, non-sensitive positions, information must be reported to the servicing HR office or regional security office),
- (5) assisting with and cooperating fully in any communications and/or forms completion related to the personnel security and/or suitability process,

- (6) for individuals holding a national security clearance reporting all foreign travel to the SD's PSO prior to departure, including both official and non-official travel (see Paragraph 9.I.), and
- (7) complying with all applicable personnel security and suitability laws, EOs, regulations, requirements, and instructions.

4. Program/Position Designation Process.

- A. General. All Reclamation positions must be designated at a suitability risk level and (when applicable) a national security sensitivity level based on the degree of damage that an individual, by virtue of the occupancy of the position, could cause to the efficiency of the Federal service or national security.
- B. Program Designation. This is a designation that assigns the program impact and scope of operation on a Reclamation-wide basis. Departmental Manual Part 441 Chapter 3 requires a consistent program placement based on the mission of the agency not on the individual duties of the position. Program designation is identified by the Denver HR Policy and Programs Division in the position designation process when utilizing the OPM PDT. Reclamation must use "multi-agency" as the program designation for all Reclamation positions.
- C. Position Designation. In accordance with OPM Federal Investigative Notice 10-06, the OPM PDT must be used to determine the position risk/sensitivity designation (i.e., the national security sensitivity and/or suitability risk levels of a position.) This tool must be used in conjunction with the duties of the position identified in the PD and in collaboration with the supervisor/manager of the position.
- D. Position Designation Levels. HR must designate and record each Reclamation position on a PDR, (generated from the OPM PDT), a PD cover sheet (OF-8), and in the Federal Personnel Payroll System (FPPS) at one of the risk or sensitivity levels identified in Table 1.

5. Background Investigations.

- A. General. Every Federal employee and contractor is subject to a background investigation upon appointment to the job and upon placement in a position with a higher risk or sensitivity level. Some position risk levels also require periodic reinvestigations. In addition, all positions are subject to re-evaluation if new adverse information is discovered that could affect the individual's suitability for employment or access to classified information.
  - (1) Every Reclamation appointment is subject to investigation. The investigation's scope is ascertained by the risk and sensitivity level of the position that was determined by the position designation process.

Reclamation Manual

---

- (2) The Defense Counterintelligence and Security Agency (DCSA) conducts background investigations on behalf of Reclamation in accordance with 5 CFR 731.104 and HSPD-12 requirements.
- (3) Information about DCSA background investigations can be accessed at Personnel Vetting \(dcsa.mil\).
- (4) The appropriate Reclamation staff must initiate investigations (i.e., submit to OPM) no later than 14 calendar days after placement in the position, but preferably prior to appointment.

B. Risk/Sensitivity Level Changes.

- (1) If an individual will be moving to a position with a higher risk/sensitivity level, Reclamation requires an upgraded background investigation. Supervisors can place an individual into the position while conducting the background investigation unless the position is a critical sensitive or an LE position. All critical sensitive or LE positions require an approved Waiver of Pre-Appointment Investigation Requirement (see Paragraph 5.H. of this D&S) or a favorably adjudicated background investigation prior to placement into the position.
- (2) If the risk/sensitivity level of the individual's current position changes to a higher level, Reclamation requires an upgraded background investigation, and the individual may fill or remain in the position while the upgraded investigation is being conducted and adjudicated.
- (3) The appropriate Reclamation staff must initiate any upgraded investigation required for a new risk/sensitivity level (i.e., submitted to DCSA) within 14 calendar days of the effective date of the move or the finalized new designation. Consequently, any request for an upgraded investigation required for a new national security or public trust level must be transmitted to the SD's PSO prior to the effective date, or as soon as possible.

- C. Types and Frequency of Investigations and Reinvestigations. Table 1, below, gives the type of investigations/reinvestigations and the frequency of reinvestigations that Reclamation requires for each risk/sensitivity and security access level. The appropriate Reclamation staff must initiate reinvestigations 6 months prior to the applicable anniversary of their previous completion date (12 months for special sensitive positions). The period for calculating when to initiate a reinvestigation begins with the completion date (i.e., case closing transmittal date) of the prior investigation. For more specific information regarding the scope of each type of investigation, see 441 DM 4 tables on pages 7-9.

- D. North American Electric Reliability Corporation (NERC) Requirements. NERC Critical Infrastructure Protection (CIP) Standard CIP-004 requires individuals with unescorted access to physical security perimeters (as defined and established under CIP-006) to undergo a Personal Risk Assessment every 7 years consisting of an identity verification and 7-year criminal check. Personal Risk Assessments are separate from the background reinvestigation requirements described above. NERC CIP policies and procedures contain processes and procedures for conducting these Personal Risk Assessments are contained in.

<sup>2</sup> Effective October 1, 2016, all tiered investigation naming conventions are in effect. Previously completed background investigations and background investigations opened before their respective naming convention transition dates will retain their original background investigation names (shown in parentheses).

---

- E. Responsibility for Background Investigations Costs. The appropriate administrative and program accounts from where a position or program resides will fund background investigation costs. The residing program will provide an appropriate cost structure and organizational code/cost center upon requesting or initiating a background investigation.
- F. Exceptions.
- (1) The following positions are excepted from background investigation or upgraded investigation requirements (provided that any separate background investigation requirements of the HSPD-12 PIV process and any NERC-CIP requirements have been met). These exceptions do not apply to national security positions.
    - (a) Positions which are intermittent, seasonal, per diem, or temporary (including details or temporary promotions), any of which are not expected to exceed an aggregate of 180 calendar days per 12-month period in either a single continuous appointment or a series of appointments do not require a background investigation. This does not preclude appropriate checks (e.g., verification of any issues in DCSA's Central Verification System (CVS), fingerprint check, screening OF-306, etc.) to ensure the suitability of an individual.
    - (b) Other positions that OPM, in its discretion, deems appropriate based on a written request to OPM by an agency head in whose agency the positions are located do not require a background investigation.
    - (c) Positions filled by foreign nationals employed outside of the U.S. do not require a background investigation.
- G. Prior Investigations (Non-Reclamation Associated). Whenever Reclamation cannot verify a favorable adjudication of an existing investigation, Reclamation will request and review any previous investigations to ensure those meet the appropriate EO, DOI, OPM, and Reclamation requirements for the new position or for serving in contracted roles. Reclamation will not consider prior investigations, when an individual has a break in service of 2 or more years since the previous investigation, the prior investigations do not meet the minimum investigation requirement according to the position sensitivity designation, Reclamation cannot verify a favorable adjudication, or the reinvestigation frequency of the prior investigation has been exceeded.
- H. Waiver of Pre-Appointment Investigation Requirement.<sup>3</sup> The interest of the Federal service dictates that a bureau must not appoint or assign individuals to critical sensitive positions or LE positions until the appropriate investigation or waiver has been completed. Waiving a pre-appointment investigation carries the risk of placing an ineligible person in a sensitive position, exposing the Federal service to damage and embarrassment. EO 10450, as amended, requires that a waiver of the pre-appointment investigative requirement for employment in a "sensitive" position only be made "in case of emergency" provided that such action is necessary "in the national interest." If the hiring bureau utilizes a waiver, the manager will request a waiver of the pre-appointment investigation requirement for a critical sensitive position or LE position by completing all of the requirements as described below.

<sup>3</sup> A person currently holding a Top-Secret clearance may be placed directly into a position requiring an SCI without a waiver while awaiting adjudication of the SCI.

- (1) Subject to the EO 10450 provisions for being an "emergency" and "in the national interest," the hiring official will complete and seek approval of a Request for Waiver of Pre-appointment Investigative Requirement for a Critical Sensitive Position, Form DI 1912, (see Appendix A, page A1 for non-LE positions or A3 for non-critical sensitive/critical-sensitive LE positions) before appointing or assigning an individual to a critical-sensitive position or LE position, unless the required background investigation has been completed. The hiring official, or appropriate Reclamation staff must submit all waiver requests to the SD's PSO, at a minimum, 2 weeks prior to the proposed effective date to ensure required checks and approval is obtained prior to entrance on duty. The requesting office must complete the specified required checks (see Appendix A, page A2 for non-LE positions or A4 for LE positions).
- (2) Reclamation requires a waiver for each employee or individual assigned, transferred, demoted, reassigned, or promoted (whether permanently or as a temporary/term employee) to a critical sensitive position or LE position unless the appropriate level of background investigation has been fully completed in advance.
- (3) Hiring officials cannot use waivers for special sensitive positions.
- (4) Waivers are optional for non-critical sensitive positions except for LE positions. Reclamation requires waivers for all LE positions unless the applicant has a verified and favorably adjudicated background investigation that meets the minimum requirement.
- (5) Granting a waiver does not provide authorization for access to classified national security information or delegation of LE authority.
- (6) The requesting office must complete the following mandatory specified checks/items/forms before forwarding the applicable waiver request and attach results attached to Form DI 1912 (Appendix A, page A1 for non-LE positions or A3 for LE positions):
  - (a) Pre-appointment Background Check, Form DI 1990 (see Appendix A, page A2 for non-LE positions or A4 for LE positions),

Reclamation Manual

Directives and Standards

---

- (b) Questionnaire for National Security Positions, Form SF 86,
- (c) current resume, and
- (d) justification requesting a waiver of this pre-appointment investigative requirement which will:
  - (i) be written and state the necessity including the “emergency” necessitating the request and the rationale justifying it being in the “national interest,”
  - (ii) include a statement that the employee will not have access to classified national security information, and
  - (iii) include a statement (when applicable) that the employee will not receive delegation of LE authority until notification is received from the CSO advising that the background investigation is complete and has been favorably adjudicated.
- (7) The Request for Waiver of Pre-appointment Investigative Requirement for a Critical Sensitive Position (or non-critical sensitive/critical-sensitive for LE positions) will be forwarded to the SD’s PSO according to the sequence designated on DI 1990 (Appendix A, page A2 for non-LE positions or A4 for LE positions). The PSO will notify the submitting office of the action taken on the request.
- (8) Upon the approval of a waiver by the Director, MAPO or designee (or the DOI Office of Law Enforcement and Security for LE officer positions), the individual may enter on duty or be reassigned to the critical sensitive position or LE position; however, the required investigation must be initiated within 14 calendar days of the individual occupying the position.

6. Investigative Forms.

- A. General. Various forms are used to request a background investigation. The form used is based on the type of position, i.e., the risk and sensitivity level, rather than the type of investigation to be performed. Investigative forms must be accessed and entered on-line via the Electronic Questionnaires for Investigations Processing System (e-QIP) at the following Web site: www.opm.gov/e-qip. Individuals must first be initiated into the system by a personnel security specialist or other authorized staff member.
- B. Descriptions. The following Table 2 designates the various forms used in the background investigation process required by OPM to schedule an investigation. Table 3 identifies the documentation required to be provided to the SD’s PSO for processing

7. Adjudication.

A. General.

- (1) The overall process objective is to adjudicate an individual's suitability for promoting the efficiency of the Federal service and, if applicable, is in the interest of national security while assuring "fair, impartial, and equitable" treatment to the applicant/employee.
- (2) Delegated authority for Federal agencies from OPM for making most suitability determinations and taking most suitability actions for applicants and appointees is found in Title 5 CFR 731.103 and 731.105. Adverse action procedures taken on employees due to unfavorable suitability background investigations are found in 5 CFR 752. Adverse action procedures relating to national security positions are found in 5 CFR 732.301.

B. Initial Suitability Screening. During the hiring process or an applicable internal position action, the servicing HR office, or other office as designated by the regional director, screens job applications<sup>7</sup> to identify any potentially disqualifying suitability issues. The initial suitability screening and referral process occurs during the competitive examining process and prior to initiating an investigation. The servicing HR office will refer cases involving potentially disqualifying issues to qualified adjudicators for a determination of the person's employment suitability. The servicing HR Office and/or the PSO may determine an applicant unsuitable during this initial screening process. Unsuitable determinations are final decisions and not subject to acceptance of risk by Bureau officials. Further information on the initial suitability adjudication and referral process is contained in 441 DM 5.2.

C. Adjudication Process. Except for the initial suitability screening described above and an advance favorably adjudicated fingerprint check provided by DCSA, the formal adjudication process occurs after DCSA completes the personnel investigation of an individual. OPM's "Suitability Processing Handbook" contains additional information on the adjudication process.

D. Issue Seriousness Ranking System. After DCSA has gathered all the information regarding a background investigation, it makes a preliminary adjudication and codes/ranks both the overall adjudicative character of the case and any specific potentially derogatory information (issues) developed during its investigation based on levels of characterization seriousness. DCSA informs Reclamation of its assessment upon completion of the investigation by referring to the following issue seriousness codes ranked as "A, B, C, or D" by OPM's Investigation Service.

<sup>7</sup> Job applications refer to forms used prior to occupying a position, i.e., resume, e-QIP, OF-306, supplemental questionnaires, etc.

Reclamation Manual

Directives and Standards

- (1) “A” issue(s) are minor and the conduct or issue, standing alone, would not be disqualifying for any position under suitability.
- (2) “B” issue(s) are moderate and the conduct or issue, standing alone, would probably not be disqualifying for any position under suitability.
- (3) “C” issue(s) are substantial and the conduct or issue, standing alone, would probably be disqualifying for any position under suitability.
- (4) “D” issue(s) are major and the conduct or issue, standing alone, would be disqualifying for any position under suitability.

E. Adjudication Standards. 441 DM 5 and the OPM Suitability Processing Handbook contains adjudication standards. Reclamation will also apply these standards when adjudicating contractor background investigations.

F. Adjudicators. Trained personnel security specialists perform adjudication, or in the case of low-risk suitability adjudications, other specialists trained and experienced in adjudication (e.g., HR specialists or security officers). Specific adjudicative responsibilities are as follows:

Type of Position	Office Responsible for Adjudication
National Security	SD PSO
Public Trust – high and moderate risk	SD PSO
Non-Sensitive/Low Risk Federal employees and contractor staff	Servicing HR Office or other office as assigned by the regional director <sup>8</sup>

- (1) At a minimum, the Graduate School USA Course “Suitability Adjudication” or an equivalent course is required for individuals conducting any level of suitability adjudication. Adjudicators must continue to receive periodic refresher training (e.g., seminars, conferences, special courses, etc.) every 3 years to keep well informed of the latest developments of the program.
- (2) The individual conducting the review and adjudication must have been found suitable by obtaining, at a minimum, a favorably adjudicated national security moderate risk background investigation in accordance with OPM Position Designation Tool guidelines.

G. Adjudicative Procedures.

<sup>8</sup> The PSO is responsible for Denver and Washington Offices. The Lower Colorado Regional Security Office is responsible for the Lower Colorado Region.

Reclamation Manual

- (1) The adjudicator will review DCSA's investigation results and make an initial suitability determination recommendation.
- (2) Upon request, the SD PSO will conduct an adjudicative review of regional office adjudications that have a "C" or "D" seriousness ranking and any adjudication where the regional office adjudicator proposes a suitability denial.
- (3) If an investigative report contains no information of a materially derogatory nature, the adjudicator signs and dates the DCSA Certification of Investigation (COI). The adjudicator must send the COI to the servicing HR office (for Federal employees) to file in the individual's electronic-Official Personnel Folder (e-OPF). The servicing HR office must notify employees and their supervisors of the favorable adjudication. The adjudication office will maintain a copy of the COI in the security file. For contractor staff, the adjudication office retains the COI. The adjudication office must notify the COR of the favorable adjudication.
- (4) The SD's PSO will maintain information about clearance and position risk/sensitivity level for national security and public trust positions including the type and date of investigation, initiating reinvestigations, and other pertinent data.
- (5) If an individual's investigative report contains materially derogatory information (issues), the adjudicator will do the following.
  - (a) Review the investigative report and synopsise the issues.
  - (b) As needed, generate a Letter of Interrogatory (LOI) (for suitability cases) or a Statement of Reasons (SOR) letter (for national security cases) to ascertain additional information for issue resolution. The adjudicator will consult Employee Relations (ER), as appropriate.
  - (c) The adjudication action taken will range from making a favorable determination (with or without contacting the individual for issue resolution) up to, and including, removal. The adjudicator will not take unfavorable action unless the conduct is not clearly consistent with the interests of national security or there is a nexus between the conduct and the required duties of the position which does not promote the efficiency of the Federal service, or with Reclamation's ability to perform its mission.
- (6) The individual will have 30 calendar days (for suitability cases) or 45 calendar days (for national security cases) to respond to and resolve the identified issues. If concerned parties make progress to address the issues, the CSO may grant a single 30-day extension. The adjudicator will generate a second LOI or SOR if new information is discovered requiring additional information from the individual.

- (7) Upon receipt of an individual's responses to an LOI or SOR, the adjudicator will make a final adjudication based on the information obtained. This information will be maintained in the individual's security file. The adjudicator will consider all information furnished when making the final adjudication.
- (8) If the investigative report containing materially derogatory information is on a current Reclamation employee who was previously found suitable for a public trust position or found eligible for a national security position, the following will occur. These actions listed below reflect that a general suitability and/or security determination is pending. If the individual has been contacted during this phase, the results of that contact are made a part of the individual's file.
  - (a) The SD's PSO will notify the ER office staff, and ER will contact the appropriate management/supervisory official.
  - (b) The management/supervisory official, in conjunction with servicing HR office/ER staff, will consider the appropriate action to take until a final adjudication determination is made.
  - (c) When appropriate, the SD's PSO will be temporarily suspend the employee's national security clearance pending a final adjudication determination.
- (9) For a current Reclamation employee in a public trust position converting to a national security position, the individual may remain in the public trust position pending the outcome of the adjudicative process, or the hiring official can place the individual in a non-critical sensitive national security position but shall not have access to any classified information or material until a final determination is made.
- (10) If an investigative report contains derogatory information concerning a Federal employee (transferee) in a non-national security position transferring into a national security position, the individual shall not have access to any classified information or material until a final determination is made.
- (11) For Federal employee suitability cases, if the final adjudication is unfavorable, the CSO will notify the supervisor/manager and servicing HR office/ER staff by sending an Adverse Suitability Determination Memorandum.
- (12) For national security positions, if the final determination is unfavorable, the CSO will issue a letter of decision to the individual with a copy to the servicing HR office/ER staff as notification of the unfavorable determination. The letter of decision outlines the individual's appeal rights to the DOI Personnel Security Appeals Board. The servicing HR office will not take any adverse action unless the Personnel Security Appeals Board appeal process is completed and the decision upheld or if the individual does not file an appeal within the allowable time period. The CSO will keep the servicing HR office/ER staff informed of the status, in a timely manner. If the case is appealed, the CSO will notify the servicing HR office/ER staff of the outcome of the appeal. If the Personnel Security Appeals Board upholds the appeal, an Adverse Security Determination Memorandum will be sent by the CSO to the supervisor/manager and servicing HR office/ER staff. For more specific information, refer to due process procedures as described in 441 DM 5.8.

- (13) For contractor staff, if the final adjudication is unfavorable, the CSO will send an Adverse Suitability Determination Memorandum to the COR to ensure the removal of the individual from the contract and access to the Federal facility at which the contract activities are occurring.
- (14) For national security positions, if the final determination is favorable, the CSO can reinstate the individual's temporarily suspended or revoked clearance, if applicable, and will notify the servicing HR office/ER staff about the reinstatement.
- (15) If the adjudication process finds an individual unsuitable or ineligible for the position for which they are considered, the supervisor/manager of that position must initiate one of two actions:
  - (a) rescind any offer of employment for the position under consideration, or
  - (b) remove the individual from the position if they have already been placed in the position under consideration.
- (16) Hiring officials may not place employees found unsuitable or ineligible for a position into another vacant position which would be a promotion or grade increase from the position vacated through non-competitive means, waive minimal qualifications, impact priority placement, or lead to double encumbrment. Hiring officials may also not use such a determination as the basis for changing the designation of the position to accommodate the unsuitable or ineligible individual. Note: Eligibility within this context refers to a national security clearance.
- (17) The adjudicator will provide the final adjudicative determination notice (INV Form 79A) to OPM or enter the notice into CVS. The adjudicator will file a copy of the INV Form 79A and any adjudication notes or summary sheets in the individual's security folder.

8. National Security Clearances.

- A. General. Reclamation's SD PSO will ensure qualified individuals conduct and favorably adjudicate an appropriate background investigation, conduct a security briefing, and sign and witness an SF 312 prior to granting a security clearance.
- B. Need for Clearance. Reclamation will only grant a security clearance to those individuals with a bona fide need to access classified information or who routinely work or need unescorted access to an area where classified material is used or stored. Reclamation does not generally require a clearance for an individual that occasionally acts in, or is on a temporary detail to, a position designated as a national security position. However, a clearance is appropriate for individuals that would likely need access (in an acting capacity) to classified information or facilities in certain situations, such as continuity of operations. In these cases, the PD and position designation must identify that need and contain the proper risk and sensitivity level.
- C. Interim Security Clearances. For positions that will have a need for temporary access to national security information, Reclamation can grant an interim security clearance so long as the individual meets the EO requirements for an interim security clearance. The SD's PSO can relay specific procedures for processing an interim security clearance in these cases on a case-by-case basis. This is used infrequently and is only applied in emergency situations when required to support the mission of the organization.
- D. Prior Security Clearances. Prior security clearances granted by other Federal agencies (including other DOI components) automatically terminate and are administratively withdrawn when an employee transfers or is reassigned. However, if Reclamation cannot verify a favorably adjudicated investigation, the adjudicator will request and review an investigation used by another agency as a basis to grant a clearance, if available, to determine if the type of investigation previously conducted meets the appropriate DOI, EO, and OPM requirements for granting of a security clearance under reciprocity. When an employee transfers to Reclamation from another Federal agency, the losing agency's security file and/or investigative record can be transferred to Reclamation where it will be reviewed and utilized as a basis for determining that the transferring employee has already met the applicable investigative requirements. Transferring employees in need of Reclamation clearances will still need a new security briefing. Only the gaining agency may grant clearances if the position duties and position sensitivity designation require it.
- E. Reclamation processes contractor employees needing a national security clearance under the National Industrial Security Program Operating Manual (NISPOM) as specified in 443 DM 1. DOI does not have the authority to grant clearances to contractors, therefore, all contractor clearance requests must be processed through the DOD NISPOM. For further information, refer to DOD NISPOM 5220.22-M dated February 28, 2006.

- F. Security Briefing. When Reclamation grants a clearance, an authorized security briefing officer must conduct a security briefing using the following procedures.
- (1) The authorized security briefing officer must conduct a security briefing before employment or work commences, or as soon as possible thereafter, but before the granting of a clearance. An individual will not have access to classified information until after the security briefing. The CSO to other SD PSO staff, regional security officers, or other authorized security briefing officers must delegate responsibility for conducting security briefings.
  - (2) The security briefing officer will provide security briefing materials, including the SF 312, to the employee. The security briefing materials will also outline the reporting requirements for individuals with security clearances. The security briefing officer will provide the Defense Human Resource Activity website (<http://www.dhra.mil/perserec/osg/home.htm>) as part of the briefing materials which identifies what must be reported. Examples include, but are not limited to, arrests or incidents with law enforcement, foreign travel, foreign contacts requesting sensitive information, serious financial difficulties, and life changing events such as marriage, divorce, birth of a child, name change, change of address, etc.
  - (3) The employee will acknowledge understanding of their responsibilities listed in the SF 312 and will sign and date the form. When an individual signs the SF 312 form they are acknowledging that they are bound for life by a contract with the U.S. Government to not disclose any classified information. The security briefing officer will witness the form as a qualified witness who possesses an “equal to” or “higher level” security clearance as the individual signing the SF 312. The SD’s PSO will maintain the signed original SF 312.
- G. Granting. Once the individual has completed the security briefing process and upon the receipt of a properly executed and witnessed SF 312 by the SDs PSO, clearance is granted. The procedures are as follows:
- (1) verification of a properly executed SF 312, and
  - (2) preparation of a grant letter by the SD’s PSO staff and distributed as follows:
    - (a) original to the employee’s e-OPF,
    - (b) copy to the employee,
    - (c) copy to the employee’s supervisor, and
    - (d) copy to the employee’s security file, which is retained by the SD’s PSO.

- H. Training. In compliance with Classified National Security Information, 32 CFR Part 2001, all employees and contractors who create, process, or handle classified information shall have refresher security education and training at least annually. This training will focus on the proper handling and protection of classified information.
- I. Travel Reporting Requirements. Reclamation requires all clearance holders to report all foreign travel. The employee must provide an e-mail notification to the SD's PSO identifying dates of travel, location of travel, and purpose of travel (i.e., official or non-official). Reclamation also requires that prior to travel a clearance holder must review the U.S. Department of State Web site at <http://travel.state.gov/content/travel/english.html> to review any travel concerns or prohibitions that may exist for the specific foreign country they will be visiting.
- J. Security Debriefing. Prior to a cleared individual separating from employment with Reclamation, or upon a position sensitivity change no longer requiring the individual to have a national security clearance, a debriefing must occur. Procedures to accomplish the debriefing are as follows.
- (1) The appropriate servicing HR office must notify the SD PSO when an employee is separating (transferring or terminating) or being downgraded from a national security position. This also applies to reassignments within Reclamation (e.g., from region to region) as the position sensitivity often changes. For separations from Reclamation, notification must be sent via e-mail to the SD's PSO on the day the HR office is notified of the scheduled separation. For position sensitivity changes, the HR office will provide to the SD's PSO a modified position sensitivity designation package as soon as possible. This is to ensure timely notification for the requirement of the employee to be debriefed prior to separation or downgrading from a national security position.
  - (2) The SD's PSO must contact the employee within 24 hours of notification to schedule an appointment for the debriefing or to make other arrangements if the employee is not available. If the employee to be debriefed is at a location other than in the Denver, Colorado commuting area, the SD's PSO coordinates arrangements for a field security briefing officer to conduct the debriefing. The SD's PSO must send all applicable documents to the assigned security briefing officer for their use in this process; or, in the rare case when an employee has already separated, the debriefing will be accomplished via correspondence between the SD's PSO and the former employee.
  - (3) The debriefing includes the employee reading, signing, and dating the debriefing acknowledgement on the bottom of the original SF 312 with the security briefing officer witnessing this action. The debriefing officer will explain the continued importance, even in separation and cancellation of the clearance, of the contract between the individual and the U.S. Government to not disclose classified information. The security briefing officer will also explain to the individual that clearances do not pass to another agency or private sector job (only verification of a prior background investigation) and will be administratively withdrawn. In the rare case where the security briefing officer conducts the briefing after the fact, the security briefing officer does not witness the form in person, but the SD's PSO acknowledges the witnessing via a memorandum to the file once the individual returns the SF 312.

- (4) The individual must return the SF 312 to the SD's PSO for filing of a copy of the SF 312 in the employee's security file and the security briefing officer updates the PSSP database at that time. Reclamation deactivates the employee's national security access at that time and administratively withdrawn in CVS.
- (5) The retention for the original SF 312 is 50 years from the date of execution. The SD's PSO retains the original SF 312, once an employee is debriefed.

K. Verification of Security Clearances and Personnel Investigations. Before an individual with a security clearance attends a meeting or activity at another agency that requires a national security clearance, the SD's PSO must verify the individual's clearance in CVS or certain information must be passed between agency personnel security officers. Reclamation does not accept a verbal declaration of a clearance.

- (1) To ensure proper verification, Reclamation employees coordinating a classified briefing, conference, meeting, training, or other activity requiring a national security clearance (or unescorted access to a secure area where classified material may be present) must notify the SD's PSO at least 7 calendar days in advance of the date of the activity with the following information:
  - (a) proposed attendee name, social security number, citizenship, and date and place of birth,
  - (b) organization(s) represented, purpose of the activity,
  - (c) date, location, and security level of the activity,
  - (d) official point of contact, contact telephone number, and fax number, and
  - (e) duration the clearance is expected to be needed (not to exceed 1 year).
- (2) Reclamation employees who plan to attend a classified briefing, conference, meeting, training, or other activity outside Reclamation requiring verification of a national security clearance must notify the SD's PSO and provide the required information listed above. The employee must provide this information at least 7 calendar days in advance of the date of the activity.

Reclamation Manual

- (3) If the SD's PSO cannot verify the clearance information via CVS, personnel security officers for individuals from other agencies visiting Reclamation must provide the following via fax in addition to the required information above:
  - (a) type and date of latest investigation,
  - (b) adjudication date of latest investigation,
  - (c) level and date of clearance granted,
  - (d) name of granting agency, and
  - (e) name of investigating agency.

L. Sanctions for Security Incidents/Infractions/Violations. Protecting classified information shall be of paramount concern upon discovery of any security incident. If any Reclamation employee discovers an incident, immediate action will be taken to secure and control any classified information involved. Sanctions can include suspension or revocation of security clearances, and potential disciplinary action, up to and including termination from Federal employment.

9. Records Management.

- A. General. The SD's PSO, the servicing HR offices, and the regional security offices have the authorization to request and receive investigative files from OPM. These offices are responsible for protecting Privacy Act investigative records and case files and maintaining those records as required by Reclamation's information security and records retention policies.
- B. Dissemination of Investigative File. Reclamation will not allow an individual access to their investigation files. Reclamation will observe the following requirements when furnishing information to each of the following individuals or entities.
  - (1) The Individual of the Investigation.
    - (a) Reclamation will provide the individual excerpts, summaries, or an analytical extract of information from the investigation report via written correspondence.
    - (b) Reclamation will not provide the individual a copy of the OPM, or any other agency, investigation report.
    - (c) A copy of the investigation report is available from the investigative agency under the provisions of the Privacy Act and/or Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) (see Paragraph 10.D.).

(2) Another Agency's Authorized Official.

- (a) Reclamation will not release a copy of any investigative file, in whole or part, to an agency, an agency investigator, or other representative, unless Reclamation obtains approval from the investigative agency (e.g., Defense Security Service, Federal Bureau of Investigation, OPM, etc.). Pursuant to Section (b)(7) of the Privacy Act of 1974, Reclamation will permit employees outside the agency, if authorized by law, to view security files if they have made a written request and have a need to know as determined by the SD's PSO. The custodian of the information will maintain a record of each disclosure. The disclosure record will include the official's name, title, address of the individual or agency, the type of investigation conducted on the reviewer of the file, the disclosure/review date, and the reasons for disclosure and review.
- (b) Reclamation will allow OPM investigators to review and summarize any investigative file maintained by Reclamation. OPM investigators do not require disclosures to review the file.

(3) Agency Authorized Officials.

- (a) Pursuant to Section (b)(1) of the Privacy Act of 1974, Reclamation will permit officers and employees of the agency to view security files if they have a need to know, as determined by the SD's PSO, in the performance of their duties. The custodian of the information will maintain a record of each disclosure.
- (b) The custodian of the information will ensure no investigative material or reports are copied, placed in the subject's e-OPF, or taken out of the control of the custodian.

C. Protection of Investigative Sources and Materials. No classified or any other information which might compromise investigative sources, methods, or otherwise identify confidential sources, are disclosed to any individual, the individual's counsel or representative, or to any other person or entity not clearly authorized to have the information.

- (1) The Privacy Act of 1974 protects personal information collected from employees, applicants, appointees, non-Reclamation employees, etc.
- (2) All individuals will strictly observe all other applicable regulations pertaining to the safeguarding of classified information.

D. Release of Investigative Report. Reports of Investigation are only releasable in accordance with the provisions of the Privacy Act and/or FOIA.

and/or eligibility for access to classified information for applicants, appointees, Federal employees, contractors, volunteers, and other individuals.

- E. Classified Information. Information, regardless of form, that requires protection against unauthorized disclosure. - F. Derogatory Information. Information that indicates an individual’s employment, continuing employment, or assignment of work with the Federal government may not reasonably be expected to promote the efficiency of the Federal service or expected to be clearly consistent with the interests of national security.
- G. Efficiency of the Service. The employer’s verification that the applicant or employee can perform the duties and responsibilities of the position while protecting the integrity of the Federal service, and their presence on the job or conduct (on or off duty) will not inhibit other employees or the agency from performing their functions.

- M. National Security Position. Positions designated as “sensitive” at specific national security sensitivity levels, incumbents of which are eligible for access to classified information associated with each level. Any position in which the employee could bring about, because of the nature of the position, a material adverse effect on the national security. There are three types of national security positions, which require access to classified information:
- (1) Special Sensitive Position. Any position, the duties of which are determined to be at a level higher than "critical sensitive" because of a greater degree of damage that an individual occupying the position could do to the national security, or because the duties may entail access to SCI.
  - (2) Critical Sensitive Position. Any position with a requirement for access to Top Secret information.
  - (3) Non-Critical Sensitive Position. Any other national security position that does not fall within the definition of a critical or special sensitive position. The duties of a non-critical sensitive position include, but are not limited to, access to national security information and material up to, and including, Secret.

- P. Public Trust Position. A high or moderate risk position that is not a national security position, meaning it does not require access to classified information, but may require access to sensitive but unclassified information. Public trust positions are designated at a specific level of risk based on the degree of damage that an individual, by virtue of the occupancy of the position, could do to the public or the Federal service.
- Q. Reclamation Security Division. The office within Reclamation’s MAPO directorate where the management of Reclamation-wide security functions (including information, personnel, and facility security) resides.
