

Leah Flint, Ph.D.

Leah Flint is a Civil Engineer in the Bureau of Reclamation's Water Treatment Group at the Technical Service Center in Denver. She works on applied research and design water treatment projects with a focus on distribution systems and process optimization, and also ensures Reclamation's Water Treatment Laboratory is prepared to tackle current and future water treatment challenges. Leah has a PhD from the University of Colorado Boulder and is a registered PE in Colorado.