

Trisha recently finished her a PhD in chemical engineering at the University of Colorado. She has studied various aspects of nanofiltration and reverse osmosis membranes for emerging contaminant removal, wastewater reuse, and desalination applications. She has been happy to intern with the USBR technical service center water treatment group for the past few months.