Successful WIN Workshop

The 1st Annual BGNDRF Water treatment Innovations and Networking Workshop is being described as a success in surveys from the approximately 93 attendees, including staff, volunteers and presenters. The audience was comprised of people from seven universities, two national laboratories, four federal agencies, one state agency, several businesses and startup company representatives as well as interested individuals. The surveys also provided lots of useful feedback, which will be used to make the next WIN Workshop even better.

For those who were not able to attend, but are interested in learning more, many of the presentations and the final agenda are available for download at the following link.
