

Dr. Sharon Nappier is currently the National Program Leader for Water Reuse in the Office of Water at the United States Environmental Protection Agency. She specializes in environmental health microbiology and quantitative microbial risk assessment; and most recently was part of the team that helped develop the National Water Reuse Action Plan (WRAP) released on February 27, 2020. Sharon holds a BS degree in Biology and Environmental Science from The George Washington University; a MSPH degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in Environmental Sciences and Engineering; and a PhD from the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health in Environmental Health Engineering.